So You Want to Work on a College Campus?

CASE State Day
Bowling Green State University
Julie Palmer (jmpalme@bgsu.edu)

Types of Work You May Consider:

Higher Education Administration: "Focused more on working for students, in areas including higher education policy, budget and finance, and curricular development"-Michigan State University-Department of Educational Administration

Student Affairs: Focused on working directly with students in areas including advising, residence life and housing, student activities, Greek affairs, orientation, multicultural services, student development, career exploration, and leadership development"- Michigan State University-Department of Educational Administration

Advancement: "Advancement is a strategic, integrated method of managing relationships to increase understanding and support among an educational institution's key constituents, including alumni and friends, government policy makers, the media, members of the community and philanthropic entities of all types"-Council for the Advancement and Support of Education

Tips/Suggestions:

-Set up a meeting with a student affairs/advancement professional at your institution. Come prepared with questions about their education/career path.

-Attend CASE/NASPA/ACPA or any other professional conference. There are many scholarships available for undergraduate students to minimize the cost of attending.

-Ask about auditing or enrolling in a Masters level course in your area of interest.

Professional Organizations:

www.myacpa.org/   www.naspa.org/   www.case.org/

Student Affairs Career Planning: http://www.myacpa.org/considering-career-student-affairs
Graduate Program Search: https://www.naspa.org/careers/graduate/graduate-program-directory
Advancement Career Planning: http://www.case.org/About_CASE.html